

All Souls Board of Trustees-New Nominees' Bios for 2025-26

Denise Dutton

Denise grew up at All Souls. She and her husband were married here in 2009. And, now their twin daughters delight in singing with the Children's choir. Denise has served on the Intern Ministerial Committee, the Master Planning Committee and currently serve on the Children's and Youth Choir Board. Her favorite part of church is hearing the doxology spoken on Sundays and seeing it lived out in all the church does. Outside of church, she teaches in the Philosophy and Religion Dept. of the University of Tulsa. She enjoys playing-in-the-dirt, gardening and exploring the world anew through the eyes of her soon to be middle schoolers.

Pauline Farmer-Koppenol

Pauline is a native of the Netherlands and immigrated to the US as a child. She and her husband Dave reside in Annapolis Maryland. Pauline has been a Virtual/Everywhere member of All Souls for more than 10 years, where she served as a host for online services. And, she has served on the Stewardship and Gala committees. Her non-profit governance experience includes 8 years on the board of Queen Bench Bar Association (women's bar association of San Francisco), including as President in 2016. She also served four years on the board of American Bach Soloists (early music organization in San Francisco). To pay bills, Pauline is an intellectual property lawyer for Molecular Devices, LLC. Pauline might even be an amphibian, as she is frequently found in and in the water-the cooler the better. She is an avid ice swimmer.

Kim Holland

Kim Holland was the first woman elected insurance commissioner for the State of Oklahoma, an office she held for six years. As the state's regulator, she led numerous initiatives to improve access to health insurance coverage for the state's substantial uninsured population and was a frequent national spokesperson on insurance and health reform. After leaving office and prior to retirement in 2023, Kim led State Affairs for the national Blue Cross Blue Shield Association, then Government Affairs for Signify Health, a leading national technology and analytics firms for federally sponsored value-based care initiatives. Throughout her career and community service, Kim has been a strong and persistent advocate of reforms and innovation that results in better health and health care for all. She currently serves as chairman of the board of Housing Solutions, is a mayoral-appointed commissioner to the Tulsa Housing Authority and the advocacy committee of the national ALS Association. Kim has been a member of All Souls for over two decades and currently is an active member of the Garden Team.

Ben McDonald

I am a 20+ year financial services professional, currently celebrating my 7th year at Bank of Oklahoma as the Vice President and Manager of Business and Consumer Credit Solutions. In this role, I oversee the risk mitigation and underwriting for all non-mortgage Consumer and Business lending across our seven state footprint. Without 'gilding the lily', this work requires in-depth financial analysis, projection scrutiny, reputational due diligence and disciplined deployment of varying risk appetites. Prior to BOKF, I worked for TCF Bank (now Huntington) in asset based lending and inventory finance as a credit analyst and account manager. Academically, I have a BBA in Finance from the J. Mack Robinson College of Business at Georgia State University.

Personally, I am a native Tulsan with family roots in northeast Oklahoma. I am a proud product of TPS's magnet school system (Emerson, Carver and Booker T Washington) which, along with my parent, I credit for my sense of and appreciation for social justice and communal inequalities. My wife Caitlin Turner has been a member of All Souls her entire life and I joined as a member in 2024, having experienced a 'renaissance of hope' in Sunday's Traditional services. I'm not entirely sure why Caitlin nominated me, but it may have something to do with how much I study the annual budget and sympathize with Mr. Piazzola when a financial question is put to him in the annual congregation meeting.

Dale Watts

I'm just an average guy, who taught English for 31 years. I have been playing in a band for around 50 years and own a recording studio for about 4 years.

Mary and I began attending All Souls in 1993. We met a good neighbor of ours who lived in Gilcrease Hills with us. She was running through Book Table at All Souls and we agreed to help out on the 5th Sunday. Within a year or so, we took it over because she wanted to travel more. Janet was paying for the books with her own credit card and was reimbursed when the books sold. We purchase books from Steve's Sundries at a 10% discount. We have a treasurer and all that. I joined the Friends of the Library about 2 years ago and it helps with book purchases, because we get to look at some early info on upcoming publications.
